SYMPATHY OF WORLD GOES TO JAPAN

AMERICAN RED CROSS WILL CONTRIBUTE FUND OF FIVE MILLION DOLLARS
Ambassador Woods And All Attaches Of U. S. Embassy Are Safe

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 4.—The American Red Cross will seek to obtain a subscription of $5,000,000 for relief work in the stricken districts of Japan.

This plan, approved by President Coolidge at a conference with Red Cross officials, and Herbert Hoover, an expert on relief work, is to be put into effect by registering the country in cities and states as was done in war times. A detailed announcement will be issued later today.

Meanwhile telegrams have gone to all Red Cross chapters, preparing them to organize for relief fund campaigns.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 4.—Cyrus E. Woods, United States Ambassador to Japan, Mrs. Woods and the whole personnel of the Embassy in Tokio, are saved, Woods notified the State Department today.

Wood's message said the Embassy was totally destroyed by the earthquake. It was very brief and did not disclose whether any of the other Americans in Tokio and Yokohama were victims of the disaster.

Today's message from Woods was the first received from an American representative in Japan. Following is the message from Woods, sent from the Radio Station at Iwaki and undated: "All Embassy buildings totally destroyed. No one in Embassy injured. Food situation very critical. Small rations at once from Philippines."

Tokio, Yokohama and neighboring cities in the Japanese Empire today lay a burning waste; their streets littered with uncounted thousands of dead; their buildings wrecked and torn; and the tombs of those who worked and lived in them as a result of a great earthquake which rocked the country and of which meagre mention was made in the Progress last Saturday, the day of the catastrophe.

Earthquakes are frequent in that country and when the news of Saturday carried the news of "another earthquake in Japan," no more than passing attention was given to it. Sunday night the absence of news from that quarter, and the globe gave rise to a fear that a terrible catastrophe had engulfed Japan. Piling together the meagre news gathered from adjacent cities it was soon all too evident that what was probably the greatest earthquake in history had taken place. The quake came on Saturday and was followed by a giant tidal wave.

Today's latest dispatches indicate that the earthquake covered an area at least fifty miles about Tokio in each direction and that Tokio, Yokohama and all neighboring cities and villages, of which there are hundreds, are in abject ruins as a result of the crashing in of buildings, explosions and flood and fire.

The number of dead will run into six figures, the most conservative being given at One Hundred Thousand, as much as the entire population of Clearfield County, with other estimates running as high as a million.

All modern lines of communication are of course broken and little has been learned as to the identity of those lost or the extent of the disaster. Eye-witness descriptions of the disaster, for the first time in a generation, are still lacking today, the press associations being unable to get into communication with their representatives.

The sympathy of the civilized world goes out to Japan in her terrible loss and the United States government is taking measures to render every aid within her power.

Oshaka, Sept. 4.—The foreign settlement at Yokohama was completely destroyed by the earthquake tragedy. Fire broke out afresh at Tokio. The American consulate collapsed and the consul and his wife died in the ruins. The British consul also was killed.

Struck by quake and fire, the flood in Tokio was even more appalling than first official reports announced.

LOCAL WOMAN IN JAPAN

Dr. Rachel Reed, of Clearfield, a sister of Mrs. Morris Owens and Arthur H. and Samuel C. Reed, is said to have been a resident of Tokio, for the past twenty-five years. Her folks are very anxious to get news of her whereabouts. Mrs. Owens says that Dr. Reed, who has become quite wealthy while in Japan, maintains a summer home in the mountains one hundred miles from the coast and she is hopeful her sister was at this summer home when the earthquake devastated Tokio.

Washington, Sept. 4.—While no official dispatches from the stricken cities of Japan have been received, the State Department has received word that the American consul at Yokohama and his wife have been killed in the collapse of the consulate there. Official apprehension was increased.

No business man, or any other man for that matter, who is interested in the future of Clearfield, should fail to attend the public meeting of the Clearfield Commercial Club this evening in the interest of the "Fifth Great Trunk Line" proposal by the New York Central.

The meeting will be called at eight o'clock sharp. Be there.

Points He Enumerated
During Initial Meeting.

TO BE 'SHOWDOWN'

Harrisburg, Pa., Sept. 4.—The conference with anthracite operators and mine leaders, which resumes here tomorrow must stand or fall on the proposals as originally submitted last Wednesday by Governor Pinchot. It was learned authoritatively today.

Any compromise that can be reached in negotiations here, it was indicated, must be based upon the four points suggested by the Governor, covering the 10 per cent wage increase, the checkoff, the eight hour day and the right of collective bargaining.

The Governor is prepared for a "show-down" on his proposal tomorrow. Whatever the outcome, it is learned, Pinchot is going to stand pat, satisfied he has offered the best possible solution to the problem.

Wilkes Barre, Pa., Sept. 4.—The striking anthracite miners are pressing strongly upon their leaders for complete acceptance of a 10 per cent wage increase without the checkoff. The mine leaders went to Philadelphia today to bring this sentiment of the men to John L. Lewis chief at the Pinchot parley, which will re-open in Harrisburg tomorrow and the strikers are confident that a favorable conclusion may be reached so that the walk-out may be brought to an end before another week.

TEACHER'S INSTITUTE IN FULL SWING

Teachers from all parts of the county began pouring into town Monday on the morning train and a steady stream continued to come through the entire day, by train and automobile. The fine weather made auto travel a real pleasure, quite unlike the usual weather that teachers were accustomed to brave when in attendance was held just before Christmas. The number enrolled and the interest shown, notwithstanding the holiday, speaks well for the morale of the teaching force of Clearfield county and with such teachers parents can feel safe to entrust their children. At the opening session more than 500 teachers were present.

At 1:30 Superintendent Trostle called the institute to order and the devotional exercises were conducted by Rev. Wm. Armstrong, of the West Side M. E. church. After which Superintendent Trostle addressed the teachers, as follows:

"Fellow teachers, Ladies and Gentlemen: It is truly a pleasure to greet you in this, the sixtieth annual session of the Clearfield County Teachers' Institute. We are living in a transitional period. One in which great strides are being taken in almost every line of endeavor and it behooves each one of us to keep himself familiar with those epochal movements, especially those which are taking place in the particular field in which we are working."

Dr. Strayer said: "One of the most significant phenomena in the development of our American democracy during the past thirty years has been the ever enlarging scope of our system of education." There has been a conscious attempt on the part of our people to realize the democratic ideal of equality of opportunity. The proverbial "Three R's," important as they are, have been weighed in the balance and found wanting for the needs of a citizen of a great century such as the one in which we are now living. Our boys and girls of today, the men and women of a Great Tomorrow, must have a broader outlook on life than could possibly be afforded by the schools which our grandfathers attended.

There is one educational principle that is peculiarly American. It is that every man, because he is a man and an American citizen, should be liberally educated so far as circumstance will permit. A man, according to our Magna Charta, is entitled to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. And the first business of the schools is to make life worth living, liberty a thing worth striving for, and the pursuit of happiness something for which no man need be ashamed. Our schools are and rightly should be great engineering establishments from which man-power is produced. Our product should be not only good men and women, but men and women who are good for something. And you and I as teachers fail ignobly, if we do not give every boy and girl that comes under our tutelage a clear idea of the fact that every one has a work to do in the world and then prepare him in some measure for that work.

Our public schools at this time are the targets of much adverse criticism some of which is rightly placed, but much that is otherwise. We always welcome constructive criticism, but the person who tells you that the schools and teachers of fifty years ago were better in curriculum and methods of teaching than ours today, simply doesn't know what is being done in the schools of today. The curriculum of our modern schools are much richer and broader and the methods employed are far superior to those in the schools which our fathers and grandfathers attended. The difference can be stated thus: Today we are teaching children a guiding and promoting child development; then, they were teaching simply books. Yet in our educational system there are some false conceptions one or two of which I would disabuse your minds this afternoon.

The age old fallacy that education is the gaining of knowledge and that knowledge is power, as Bacon said, still prevails in many minds, even in those of teachers. While the truth is that knowledge is not power but only the key to power. It simply puts into the individual's hand the possibility of being a power in the world. In urging you to do better than you have done I am reminded of the story of Munkacsy, the man who painted the famous picture, "Christ Before Pilate" which occurred while he was visiting John Wanamaker, who had purchased the masterpiece. One day Mr. Wanamaker found him pacing up and down before the great canvases, repeating to himself, "I have done my best; I cannot surpass that." The great merchant prince calmly replied, "Tomorrow, I can do better than I did today."

Few of us are renowned artists with an almost superhuman production to our credit, but many of us are possessed of the same human frailty, that of thinking we have done our best, that we have reached our limit. Yet there is always a tomorrow in which we may have strength and opportunity to go ahead of the record which we have already made. New ideas come with each new morning to quicken us, fresh merely the gaining of knowledge. For the person who has simply acquired a stock of knowledge cannot be said to be truly educated. He must be educated for something. Education is right nourishment plus right use. There must be a harmonious development of the head, the heart and the hand. And that education is deficient which does not make provision for this all round development of the individual.

Then in our haste we have apparently forgotten that there are four kinds of power, viz: intellectual power, heart power, physical power and volitional power. In our educational system we have been trying to develop the head or intellect and in fast in many instances we have not been doing this in a scientific way. Every one knows that there are three distinct acts of the intellect, viz. Remembering, understanding and imagining, and very much of our teaching is emphasizing and developing only one of these and that the one which is the least important. Remembering I would urge upon you that you strive for an all-round development of our boys and girls.

These defects in our school system are not alone peculiarly applicable to the schools of Clearfield County, for I know that our schools and teachers are on an equal with those of any of our sister counties. Yet there are many conditions in the schools of our county which you and I should strive to better.

In urging you to do better than you have done I am reminded of the story of Munkacsy, the man who painted the famous picture, "Christ Before Pilate" which occurred while he was visiting John Wanamaker, who had purchased the masterpiece. One day Mr. Wanamaker found him pacing up and down before the great canvases, repeating to himself, "I have done my best; I cannot surpass that." The great merchant prince calmly replied, "Tomorrow, I can do better than I did today."

Few of us are renowned artists with an almost superhuman production to our credit, but many of us are possessed of the same human frailty, that of thinking we have done our best, that we have reached our limit. Yet there is always a tomorrow in which we may have strength and opportunity to go ahead of the record which we have already made. New ideas come with each new morning to quicken us, fresh

H. C. WISNER, WELL KNOWN RESIDENT OF THE FOURTH WARD, IS KILLED BY TRAIN

H. C. Wisner, well known citizen of the Fourth Ward, was instantly killed while on his way to work in the New York Central yards Saturday evening last.

Mr. Wisner had left his home on Eighth street shortly before 7 o'clock to go to his work. He went down the railroad siding leading off Bigler avenue to the yards. While going thru the yard to his place of employment he was struck by the evening passenger train and thrown against a switch stand and instantly killed. The train was running fifteen minutes late and it is believed Mr. Wisner thought it had gone by before he reached the yards and stepping on the track was struck and hurled to his death without even knowing what hit him.

His body was thrown clear of the track and the wheels of the train did not touch him.

H. C. Wisner was 42 years of age and had lived in Clearfield for many years, and where he enjoyed the respect and esteem of a wide circle of friends.

He is survived by his widow, two sons, Lloyd and Leonard of Clearfield; James of Swissvale; Charles of Steel dock and three daughters, Mrs. Henry Heasley and Mrs. Walter Elmer of Corapolis, and Miss Agnes Wisner, of Buffalo, N. Y.

The funeral occurred from his late home this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Interment in Hillcrest cemetery.

hopes fan our smoldering spirits into flames and the deeds of tomorrow should take precedence over those of our yesterdays.

In the hope that from this institute you will go forth with greater enthusiasm and a larger vision of the great calling to which you belong and that the coming school term will be the most successful in the history of our schools; I bid you one and all welcome.

The music is in charge of Prof. J. W. Yoder, who needs no introduction to a Clearfield County Institute and with Mrs. Alice Smith Bay at the piano we have a combination that insures the success of the music. The teachers sang as if they had been training for days before.

Dr. Francis Green of the Boys' School at Farmington, N. J., occupied the first period of instruction on "The Biggest Business in the World." He showed conclusively that the teacher has the biggest business in the world and advised the teachers to do three things:

1. Know your children.
2. Love your children.
3. Help your children.

Dr. Ballentine, formerly of Clarion Normal, presented in a very forceful way the claims of the Near East and urged the teachers to do all they could to help these worthy sufferers.

The last period was occupied by Dr. L. E. Beeler of Chicago, on "The Forces That Make Men." His fundamental thesis, "That what you have, what you are and what you do," some vital factors in the making of a man are: 1. Religious spirit; 2. Instinctive life; 3. Capacity; 4. Physical constitution. He made the appalling statement that out of 153,000 murders in the United States during the last ten years, less than 2 per cent paid the extreme penalty for their crime, while in England and Wales, during the same time, out of 44,000 murders, 98 per cent paid the extreme penalty. He also expressed absolute faith in our form of government and the ability of our public school to remedy this alarming condition of lawlessness.

by the news that the Yokohama consulate generally holding a considerable force, had also collapsed. It was not clear whether Consul George H. Seigismore of Consul Mar Kijassoff was a victim. In giving this brief news, it was stated there are five foreign consuls stationed at Yokohama.

Honolulu, Sept. 4.—The American Red Cross has formed headquarters here and twenty nurses and six doctors were ready for immediate dispatch to Tokio.

Medical supplies and food were ready to be shipped. It is estimated that 5,000,000 pounds of flour is available.

Pekin, Sept. 4.—Tokio is still burning.

Fresh scenes of horror are enacted on every side. Dead bodies are heaped everywhere. Imperial guards are blasting the remaining buildings in hope of stopping an advancing wall of flame from the royal palace. Pekin does not estimate the casualties and advices, from Osaka indicated much uncertainty as to the number dead.

One thousand persons in Tokio who escaped the earthquake and fire have committed suicide by drowning, insane with grief. Tokio and Yokohama less than 100,000 food supply remains and many thousands are suffering from lack of drinking water. Engineers are doing their utmost to repair the main water reservoirs.

The flames approaching Tokio's jail and fearing that nearly a thousand persons would be killed alive, officials released them. Many of the con-

Koreans also are reported to be looting in bands, and Tokio police have frustrated an attempted revolution. The Koreans were attempting to arouse Socialists and other malcontents. They were expelled and martial law, under which Tokio has been held since Saturday, tightened.

Terrible Scenes.

Osaka, Sept. 4.—Terrible scenes are reported from Yokohama. The main part of the city is completely destroyed with the city hall, Grand hotel and the specie bank in ruins. The harbor is cluttered with wreckage, many ships having collided. The breakwater was destroyed. Many ships, loaded to the danger point with refugees, have put to sea. Hakone, is believed to have been completely destroyed. Many Japanese notables and foreign residents who were staying at mountain hotels, probably escaped. Itami was heavily damaged.

Smoke Deters Airplanes.

There were monster tidal waves at Kamakura and other noted sea resorts. The exact extent of the damage is unknown. For ten hours attempts were made at airplane observations and attempts to communicate by airplane with the stricken cities, but these attempts were unavailing owing to the density of the smoke. This lack of authentic information causes many unfounded rumors.

Yamamoto Rules.
The new Premier Yamamoto was falsely reported to have been assassinated by a Korean. Yamamoto's cabinet, which he organized while the city was burning, has received royal sanction. It held its first meeting and made provisions for immediate relief work, requisitioned supplies and took other steps. All available war ships have been ordered to participate in giving relief. They must bear the brunt of transportation as the railways are disorganized.

Miss Elizabeth Merry and little niece Wilda Merry will return home this evening after visiting relatives at Pottersdale over the week end. Walter France, of Altoona and Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Kinch, of Tyrone are in attendance at the funeral of the late H. G. Wisner today.

A new army rifle, the Gerand, is a sort of a one-man portable machine gun. It can pump sixty shots a minute, as against the 25 a minute of the Springfield, and has nearly 25 per cent less recoil than the older type of rifle. It weighs a trifle over a pound more than the old gun and is about four inches longer.

Dr. F. C. Banting, discoverer of the insulin treatment for diabetes, who has been insured for $5,000,000, becomes the world's heaviest insured man.

Available statistics from life insurance companies show that Rodman Wanamaker, New York, had topped the list with $4,500,000. His father, the late John Wanamaker, was insured for $3,000,000.

Other highly insured men are: Pierre du Pont, financier, $4,000,000; Adolph Zukor, moving picture producer, $3,715,000; Josiah Cosen of Baltimore, $2,840,000; Clarence H. Mackay, president of the Postal Telegraph-Commercial Cable Company, $2,000,000; and Julius Rosenwald, president of the Sears-Roebuck & Co., Chicago, $2,000,000.

The annual issue of the "Political Calendar," prepared by George D. Thorn, superintendent of elections, of the state department of state and finance, summarizes ten new and important election laws, including the absentee voters' act, which provides that voters who are absent on the day of the primaries or the general election, may vote on an official absentee voter's ballot, provided by the county.

The new laws make the following changes in the election code:

A candidate nominated at a primary may withdraw his name by filing a written request with the secretary of state, at least 25 days before the municipal election and 50 days prior to a general election.

The act of 1921 exempting women from arrest and imprisonment for the non-payment of taxes, was repealed. Justices of the peace will be paid at the rate of $3 per year for keeping ballot boxes, with $1 per year for each additional box after the first.

The September primary has been changed in the presidential year from the third Tuesday in May to the fourth Tuesday in April.

When any of the members of the board of election returns are candidates for office and not qualified to act, the remaining officer or officers who are not candidates shall perform the duties of the board.

When the county commissioners, the judges or judge, or prothonotary are disqualified to compute the votes for candidates at the primaries by reason of their being candidates, the sheriff shall act as the return board.

The wife or husband of a person in the employ of the state or federal government, is included in the privilege of registering by petition instead of appearing personally before the registrars.

The home of a married woman, for the purpose of voting or holding office, shall be determined for all purposes as if she were unmarried.

Only five political parties must nominate candidates at the primary election. They are Republican, Democratic, Socialist, Prohibition and Progressive.

This year the primary will fall on Tuesday, September 18, and the general election Tuesday, November 6. On both days the polls will be open from 7 a. m. to 7 p. m.

The last days to be assessed in boroughs and townships for the November election are Tuesday and Wednesday, September 4 and 5. The last day to pay tax to qualify for the November election is Saturday, October 6.

The election expert emphasized the fact that all previous registration have expired.

TURN ME OVER

Torch of One's Own.
As Plutarch tells us, "It is well to go for a light to another man's fire but not to carry it by it, instead of lighting a torch of one's own." A torch of one's own! That is a possession worth having whether it be a flaming beacon on the hilltop or a tiny taper in the window. We cannot tell how far a little candle it owes its beams; nor who is laying his course by its flickering light. The most that we can do—and it is also the least that we should do—is to tend the flame carefully and to keep it steady.—Franklin D. Roosevelt

Greatest Masonry
The famous Washington monument has been called the best piece of masonry in the world. Its interior is 25 feet square, while the exterior is 55 feet square. This shows the tremendous thickness of the walls. The foundation of the shaft is 60 feet square and it is set in solid rock eight feet below the surface of the earth. Many nations, as well as cities, states and individuals contributed stones to its construction. Its walls therefore contain the intermingled stones from all parts of the world.

Seemed to Deserve Recognition.
In 1626 the Duke of Norfolk, as Earl Marshal, received a petition from Thomas Gresham, asking that, "in consideration of his petitioner being the seventh son and thirty ninth child of one father and mother, your grace would be pleased to signalize it by some portion of honors or argumentation to his petitioners, to transmit to posterity as an honor to a thing."

Vast Area of Texas.
Area of Texas is 202,396 square miles, area of other states is 2,711,876 square miles. Texas therefore has about one eleventh, or 8.82 per cent of the land area of the United States.

Good evening, glad to be with you again.

Did you enjoy Labor Day, or did it leave a bad taste?

The Japanese disaster was bad enough but not much worse than American recklessness. We kill just about as many but take longer to do the job.

Wonder how many of us have forgotten that Japan sent $100,000 to San Francisco when that city was laid low by an earthquake? The money came through the Japanese Red Cross.

America will do well if she sends that money back four fold. Much has been said and written during the past decade about the designs of Japan on this hemisphere. A distracted nation is a disarmed nation. American generosity to Japan in this time of her great need will be worth a dozen peace conferences.

We like the way the teachers' institute came to Clearfield. It looked like business. Nearly six hundred young men and young women came to Clearfield quietly, will pursue their studies quietly and leave without creating a ripple. In spite of this lack of noise and hubbub there is a force in that institute that cannot be measured by any unit at present known to man. That force will be exerted on the rising generations and what Clearfield County is twenty-five years from today is very largely dependent on what those six hundred young men and young women are doing this year.

It is illuminating as well as amusing, to people residing in the bituminous region, and who are daily using soft coal for all their domestic needs, to hear the wail coming from people who use hard coal exclusively.

A man from Pamyra, N. J., writing to the public, says, "I cannot help but take issue with the statement that bituminous coal is fit for the average householder to burn in the equipment that represents the majority of apparatus as now installed in dwellings throughout this district. Last year we almost begged to be served with bituminous coal, and found, after getting a 6000 pound ton for $14.25, that the grates in my heater would not permit the raking of the fire and still retain any of the fire heat. It was hard to keep fire overnight. It was possible to pay no attention to maintain a hot fire, but it was vitally necessary to keep strict watch that the fire box was not burned out. The worst feature of all was the accumulation of soot through the horse, hangings were ruined, and in the Spring it was necessary to have two rooms re-papered. It would be a big help to the bituminous operators to have everyone that formerly used anthracite, to substitute their product, but from my former experience, I do not care to go to the expense of remodeling my heating apparatus for the purpose, when I cannot see the right of justice of the present situation."

Now the difference. Just about twelve or fifteen miles from where this man lives, another resident of New Jersey had been used to burning hard coal in his furnace. It cost him $15.00 a ton delivered, but there was so large a percentage of rock and slate, he could not keep a fire. He ordered a car of bituminous, it stood him about $8.50 on the freight siding. He was so pleased with the use of this coal in his furnace that he is now ordered another car.

It is true that a rule, stove or furnace grates fixed for the use of hard coal, are not suitable for bituminous. But they can be used to advantage in an emergency, by a little care and intelligent fire-tending, but the economic conditions will not be helped by a protest, or an appeal to the public prejudice.—COURIER.

GREATER RESPECT FOR LAW

Legion Probation Plan Saves Many Detroit Ex-Servicemen From Stigma of Prison Terms.

Judge Thomas M. Cotter of the Recorder's court of Detroit, Mich., acting on suggestion of the American Legion, has successfully put into operation a probation plan, which has resulted in the minds of many former ex-servicemen a high regard for the authority of the law.

The system was suggested in 1919, following discharge from military service of many thousands of men, of whom some were forced to appear in police court on minor charges of misdemeanors. Under the plan inaugurated many of these men were spared the stigma of a prison sentence, due to a far-sighted policy instigated by Judge Cotter.

Only the word of the man himself, with a promise to be a better citizen, and the word from some American Legion official is necessary to save the man from sentence. The plan works remarkably well, according to the reports of the court. Out of 847 former service men who appeared before Judge Cotter, only six or seven reappeared in his court to answer charges for violation of the statutes.

The plan has been adopted in every police court in the city of Detroit. At the time of the instigation of the probation system Detroit was allied with bolshevik propaganda, and the success of the Legion system indicates the turning point of many former soldiers from disregard of law and order to a high respect for the law's authority.

FROM CONVICT TO COLONELCY

American Legion Acts to Obtain Pardon for Man Who Made Record in British Army.

Kenneth F. Thomas had been convicted and was serving a term in a Virginia penitentiary on a charge of brawling at the time of the outbreak of the World war. While employed in one of the prison farm projects he escaped, made his way up to Canada, where he enlisted and was soon in active service.

He established a splendid war record, reaching a colonelcy before discharge. During this time he kept the Virginia authorities informed of his movements, and promised that he would return and serve out his term as soon as the war was over.

Recently the man returned to Richmond and declared that he was ready to complete his prison term, admitting his identity, and acknowledging his sin. Delay in return, it is said, was due to the fact that for two years he has been in a hospital recovering from the effects of wounds.

His splendid record for bravery and attention to duty won high esteem of the British army officials. The American Legion has taken up the fight to obtain pardon for the man, and the case has been presented to the governor of Virginia by interested Legionnaires.

Roy M. Hancock Among Missing.

Diligent search is being made for Roy M. Hancock, formerly a private in the Motor Transport Corps of the army, a World War veteran. Mrs. Hattie Hancock of Chattanooga, Tenn., waited in vain for word from her son following the war. Government officials had him classified as a deserter. Early in April Mrs. Hancock received word from the state hospital for the insane at Port San Houston Texas, that her son was a patient in that institution. On the heels of this information came word that he had escaped and no trace has been found of him since that time. Hancock is twenty-eight, five feet nine inches in height, dark hair, and has a horseshoe tattooed on his right arm below his elbow. In the emblem are the words "Good Luck." Following the government's discovery that the man was a mental patient and not a deserter, he was given an honorable discharge.

Donation of Memorial.

Officials of the Illinois department of the American Legion, state officials and prominent Chicagoans gathered recently at Cicero, a suburb of Chicago, for the unveiling of a monument to the soldier dead of the city. The monument was given by a Cicero real estate dealer and bears the names on bronze plates of those Cicero men who made the supreme sacrifice. Dedication exercises were under the direction of the Legion.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Gehrt of Brookville, Pa., spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. George Hartmann at their residence on Locust street.

INVENTION BY BLOOM RETURNS BIG PROFIT

Michigan Bureau Official Shows How to Sell Rhubarb.

Two years ago Frank A. Bloom, manager of the Michigan Farm Bureau Produce exchange, noticed that rhubarb was sold on the Detroit market in bunches tied together with a string and the string bruised the stalks. The bunches were of varying weight. Mr. Bloom thought there could be an improvement. He evolved a cardboard box which would hold just five pounds of rhubarb. Then a carton was made that would hold just ten of these five-pound boxes. The plan worked. The growers found they could get more money for their rhubarb. In boxes it shipped better, there was less discount for spoilage or freezing. But Mr. Bloom was not content with just improving the package. Three grades, choice, fancy and extra fancy, were adopted. Strict grading methods were adhered to. A brand label was adopted for the extra fancy grade and there has been a greater demand for this grade than could be supplied.

Did it pay? A comparison of results under the standard bunch method and 50-pound carton method is shown in the following table:

The Old Way
57 1/2-lb bunches @ 50c	$28.75
17 1/2-lb bunches @ 25c	4.25
Total	$33.00
Cost of 50-lb boxes	1.50
Net return to grower	$31.50
The New Method
10 50-lb cartons @ $3.00	$30.00
20 25-lb boxes @ 25c	5.00
Total	$35.00
Cost of 50-lb boxes	1.50
Net return to grower	$33.50

Mr. Bloom says little about the accomplishment. "Just another demonstration," he says, "that it pays to co-operate, standardize, advertise and be honest."

These are the principles on which the Michigan Farm Bureau Produce exchange is founded. The exchange does a monthly business around $60,000 in fruit, vegetables, poultry, eggs, dressed veal and pork.

Appointed on Loan Board.

E. E. Jones of Hartford, Pa., treasurer of the Federal Land bank at Baltimore, has been appointed to fill the position on the federal farm loan board formerly held by Capt. W. S. A. Smith. Mr. Jones is a trustee of the Pennsylvania Agricultural college and was formerly a member of the house and senate of Pennsylvania.

All Kinds of Whiskers.

Whiskers are a variable size issue. The closely trimmed whisker, descending to the lobe of the ear on an otherwise clean-shaven face, was long a favorite among sporting men. Worn lower down the jaw the whisker changes character and develops into "mutton chops" or "blossom" of the Lord Dunsinane kind. This last and the mutton chop are worn with a mustache, while John Bull shaves everything except his hikers.

Indians Liked These.

In dry woods, particularly in the shadow of the hemlock, grow the rattlesnake plantains, the tufts of their gray-green leaves delicately marked with netted veins. Says Nature Magazine of Washington, "The resemblance to the markings on a snake is really responsible for its name, but the Indians once supposed it to have curative power for the bite of a rattlesnake. The two species, common in the eastern states are the lesser rattlesnake plantain and the downy rattlesnake plantain."

Real Meaning of Cheer.

According to one authority, when we shout "hip, hip, hurrah!" we really say "Hicosisms est perdit (twice), Hoannah!" This was the triumphant cry when Jerusalem fell, the initials of the words becoming "hey!" and then hip; Hoannah became hurrah and then hurrah! It sounds so genious—but far fetched.

Progress Editorial For Women

THEY'RE NOT GOOD SPORTS

By FLORENCE DAVIES

That mothers won't let their daughters grow up to be the indolent bright by a writer in a current magazine. "They want to keep them always little girls," she says; "Sweet, clinging and helpless, instead of educating them to be wives and mothers."

She says: "It ought to be just as embarrassing for a girl to be a mother's baby as it is for a boy. If a girl can't make a success of her marriage she runs home to mother. What else is there for her to do? Her mother for years has arranged for just that. If there is any one situation in life where good sporting blood is needed, it is in marriage. Matrimony was never intended for a playground for mothers babies."

In other words, this writer would have mothers teach their daughters to be good sports—to play the game to a finish. Well, if that be so, then, there's a wide field for the exercise of the new gospel. If all women were good sports, the divorce courts would go out of business; that is, almost out of business. For, of course, there are men, too, who aren't good sports. But men do habitually lay to women the charge that they are not good sports; they do not pay the game according to the rules and marriage therefore becomes a one-sided game all to the advantage of the so-called weaker sex. No game that has all the advantages on one side can be a good game; if it isn't good for both it can't be a pleasure to either and happiness cannot be found in it. The divorce court is the umpire they call, the game on account of an old excuse that will pass muster under the law.

On the other hand, what arises as to the validity of the charge that mothers won't let their daughters grow up. From all accounts, the present generation of daughters didn't wait on mother's bringing up; they walked away with diplomas self signed and self-sealed. They're out of school as they are out of hand. What they have learned in their truancy is still to be determined, but of all the things that the modern mother may justly be accused, so far as their daughters are concerned, surely it's hardly fair to say that they won't let their daughters grow up.

BANK PROMOTERS BOUND OVER TO COURT UNDER BAIL OF $3,000.00 EACH

Rural Valley, Sept. 4.—At a hearing Friday afternoon before Justice of the Peace O. S. Marshall, this place, Dr. Theodore Kharas and A. E. Ezzi, who have been active recently in this neighborhood in the organization of a proposed banking institution to be known as the "Valley Trust Company" were each bound over to September court on charges of soliciting stock in such an enterprise without being registered at Harrisburg, as is required by a recent Act of Assembly, says Simpson's Daily Leader.

Bail in the sum of $3,000 was given for their appearance in court.

No witnesses were called at the hearing on the part of the defendants. The Commonwealth's witnesses testified that both Dr. Kharas and Mr. Ezzi had solicited sales of stock in the proposed bank; that neither of them had registered at Harrisburg; that no such institution as the "Valley Trust Company" was in existence or had an application been filed for a charter for such a concern. Two of the witnesses for the prosecution testified they had given their checks to the defendants in part payment for stock in the enterprise. One man said he had paid $75 and the other $62.50.

Frank Bedford, deputy secretary of banking, who is the prosecutor in the cases, was present at the hearing.

Immediately after the hearing Dr. Kharas was arrested by the state police and taken to Jefferson county, where a Reynoldsville man has preferred a charge of false pretense against him. It is alleged that the

PENN STATE WILL OPEN 69TH YEAR WEDNESDAY, SEPT. 12; A NEW SCHOOL

State College, Pa., Sept. 4.—Everything is in readiness for the opening of the sixty-ninth year at the Pennsylvania State College, which will take place with the usual general assembly in charge of President John M. Thomas, on Wednesday morning, Sept. 12.

The only new departure at the college this year is the functioning for the first time of the new School of Education which has been formed through the combination of all previously existing educational instruction departments in various other schools of the college. Young men and women are trained in this school for the teaching profession.

The usual capacity enrollment of from 3,000 to 3,500 is expected, with the freshman class numbering about 950, this number being selected from 2,300 applicants. More than 600 seniors were graduated during the past year, but old students returning and many new students coming with advance standing from their colleges, will mean that within a few days after the opening every available room in the main campus will be under the hammer to buy stock in a banking institution Dr. Kharas was promoting in the vicinity of DuBois some time ago and which failed to materialize. The Reynoldsville man is alleged to claim that he has been unable to secure the return of late life bonds and funds which he paid into the enterprise.

YOUNG DOGS KNOW HOW TO PUT ON A SURE NUF BIG TIME

The Labor Day celebration put on by the Yellow Dogs at Curwensville yesterday was in a fair way to land the biggest crowd in that town the old village had ever seen, when the weather man mean tricked them and sent down enough rain to not only put a damper on the festivities but to head off the late afternoon crowd that was heading that way.

The parade in the morning was merely preliminary to the proceedings and was participated in by about five hundred "yaller dogs," led by the Boys' Marine Band of Curwensville and the Hicksville Band from Altoona.

By the time the parade arrived at Curwensville it was a jug of rain which poured down while another big batch of "yellers" were seated in the bleachers at the ball grounds "flooding out" as Curwensville was "putting the cleaner" on Mahaffey.

More than 200 automobiles followed the parade to the Park and Chief of Police Clark and his assistants had a busy hour slowing them away safely, all of which was done capably and in a highly satisfactory manner.

The finest dinner in the land was served at the Park by the good women of Curwensville, who certainly shamed the boys on this occasion and received unstinted praise from all the diners for the general excellence of the viands served and for the very capable and efficient manner in which it was served.

The afternoon program had just got under way when old Jupiter Pius horned in on the party and messed things up.

However, the celebration was a credit to Curwensville and those in charge have every reason to be proud of the occasion.

All the proceeds are to be devoted to improving Irwin Park and a snug sum will be realized for that purpose.

New Trunk Line for Pennsylvania

By W. H. LEIGH

DEVELOPMENT interest has been aroused in Pennsylvania by the proposal to establish a new trunk line across the State, thus affording increased facilities for the shipment of manufactured products and at the same time providing a new through line between the seaboard and the Middle West.

This proposal was presented to the Interstate Commerce Commission May 16 in the hearings held upon plans for the consolidation of the railroads of the country into a limited number of systems, as provided by the Transportation Act. It was promptly taken up by the people of Pennsylvania, led by the Williamsport Chamber of Commerce.

The only trunk line now traversing Pennsylvania is the Pennsylvania Railroad, which serves the southern part of the State. The Erie line, into the northwestern corner of the State for a short distance and the Baltimore & Ohio, which crosses the southwestern corner. Operating in Pennsylvania, with its enormous shipping and manufacturing interests, needs more transportation.

So far as a continuous line of rails is concerned the proposed route already exists. But some of the lines are different management, a condition which is not conducive to efficient operation. What is needed is a consolidation under the terms of the Transportation Act.

During the year this line was utilized to an extent which showed how useful it might be under a single management.

The proposal includes the acquisition of the Central Railroad of New Jersey by the New York Central and the allotment to the latter of certain small leased lines of the Philadelphia & Reading, together with trackage rights over short stretches of the Pennsylvania and the Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburgh until new tracks can be built by the New York Central.

At Ashtabula, O., the new line would form a junction with the existing main line of the New York Central between New York, Buffalo, Cleveland, Chicago and St. Louis.

The new line would be the second shortest between New York City and Chicago, being only 939 miles long, as compared with the Pennsylvania Railroad's 909 miles. Third would come the New York Central's present route of 979 miles; fourth the Erie with 998 miles, and lastly the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad with 1,014 miles.

The proposed route crosses the summit of the Alleghenies at an elevation of 1,539 feet, as compared with a summit elevation of 996 feet on the present New York Central water-level route, 1,519 feet on the Erie, 2,193 feet on the Pennsylvania main line and 2,270 feet on the Baltimore & Ohio.

The plan for this route as set forth to the Interstate Commerce Commission, provides:

First: A Central Railroad of New Jersey with its leased lines to be added to the New York Central Lines.
Second: Assignment of leased lines of the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad as follows:
(a) The Catawissa Railroad (Newberry Junction to Tamaqua) (Hauka).
(c) The Little Schuylkill Navigation Railroad (Tamaqua to Port Clinton).

Third: The assignment of trackage rights on the following portions of the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad, for the handling of all traffic except local traffic:
(a) Shamokin to Mahanoy City.
(b) Port Clinton through Reading to Philadelphia and Port Richmond, including the use of such portions of the Philadelphia terminals as may be necessary.

In addition the New York Central asks for a continuation of trackage rights over the Pennsylvania Railroad from Rose Siding to Falls Creek, and from the latter point, over the Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburgh Railroad to Clearfield, until owned lines can be constructed. The program also provides for temporary trackage rights over the Pennsylvania Railroad from Keating to Lock Haven, until an owned line can be constructed. This will provide a low grade line between Clearfield and Lock Haven, to which latter point the New York Central has a low grade line.

The following table gives the mileage involved from Ashtabula, Ohio, to New York:

Railroad	Terminal	Miles
New York Central, Ashtabula to Rose Siding		129.67
Trackage rights over Pennsylvania R. R. (for which will be substituted owned lines when constructed), Rose Siding to Falls Creek		20.91
Trackage rights over Buffalo, Rochester

& Pittsburgh Ry. (for which will be substituted owned lines when constructed), Falls Creek to Clearfield	30.64
New York Central (low grade line), Clearfield to Keating	52.98
Trackage rights over Pennsylvania Railroad (for which will be substituted owned lines when constructed), Keating to Lock Haven	44.96
New York Central, Lock Haven to Newberry Junction	18.21
Total existing New York Central operated lines and trackage rights	297.37
Additional lines to be assigned to the New York Central to complete the route
Philadelphia & Reading, Newberry Junction to Tamaqua	95.60
Central Railroad of New Jersey, Tamaqua to Jersey City	155.30
Total mileage, Ashtabula, Ohio, to New York	528.17

As will be seen by the above table, the New York Central ultimately proposes to build 96.51 miles of new road, so as to do away with trackage rights, thereby putting the entire trunk line under one ownership, management and operation.

At present, during the peak of traffic movement, the Newberry Junction Gateway handles 65,000 carloads of freight a month, while the normal average is approximately 45,000 cars a month. If the present rate of tonnage handled at Newberry Junction continues the rest of the year, 8,000,000 tons of freight will have passed over this route during 1923.

THE AMERICAN LEGION

City for This Department Supplied by the American Legion News Service.

MESSAGE SENT BY BALLOON

Letters for Legion Posts, by National Commander, Dropped From Big Bags.

Messages from the air were literally showered on posts of the American Legion from National Commander Alvin Owsley recently when letters were dropped from the basket of one of the balloons in the national elimination balloon race. The messages were received in a number of Eastern states where the balloon passed on its aerial journey over the country.

Participating in the general direction of the balloons would travel from the official headquarters city, a number of personal messages from Commander Owsley were made ready, and the pilots planned to throw these from the basket, as attached to tiny parachutes, as they passed over the towns and cities, later to be delivered to the commander of the Legion post in that locality.

The balloon which carried this message was entered as "The American Legionnaire," and was piloted by Capt. C. E. McCullough, vice chairman of the Legion's national committee on aeronautics. Captain McCullough was attached to various balloon schools during the war and made many flights. He is now division commander for the Pennsylvania division, and in this capacity handled transportation arrangements on the occasion of the visit of the king and queen of Belgium, Marjorie Fock, the prince of Wales and other European nobles.

Assistant Captain McCullough was Lt. Col. F. Bond of the army and served now stationed at Aberdeen proving ground, Maryland, as a Legionnaire. Lieutenant Bond has participated in a number of balloon races, being in the basket with Major Wisniewski, who won the 1922 elimination race, which started at Milwaukee. On this trip the bag landed in the Province of Quebec, Canada, some miles from its starting place. This victory entitled them to competition in the international race for the Coupe Queen Elizabeth cup, which started from Geneva, Switzerland, but they were forced down shortly after crossing the Alps.

The balloon used by Captain McCullough had Lieutenant Bond, and from the messages from the Legion's hand were dropped was of 80,000 cubic feet capacity. It was of the army type and had been supplied by the commanding officer of the Three Hundred and Eighty-second airship company, H. H. Q. reserves, Third corps army area.

SALEM PICNIC A SUCCESS

The picnic at Salem church in Boggs township yesterday, an annual event among the good people of that section, attracted the usual fine crowd and a most enjoyable time was had by all.

The Bigler band under the leadership of Prof. Ambrose Davis, with Joseph Peters as manager, furnished some very fine music during the day.

After the dinner, and such a dinner as the good wives of that neighborhood have long been famous for, Chairman Willard Cross, of the picnic committee, asked John M. Chase, of Clearfield, a former resident of that section, to preside at the entertainment they had prepared for the occasion. Mr. Chase called for music by the band and after a pleasing selection had been rendered, he introduced A. R. Chase, Esq., who delivered a neat little address in which he complimented his "old home folks" on the spirit they show at these annual gatherings at old Salem.

Miss Bell Shimmel gave a pleasing recitation, followed by more music by the band, after which John G. Mains and several others made addresses.

Among the attendants at the picnic were David Woods, aged 93, grandfather of Woods Bros. of Clearfield, and Abram Wisor, aged 88 years, who was born and has lived all his long life within sight of the picnic grounds.

We were lucky enough to get a seat at the table being looked after by Mrs. W. O. Mease, Mrs. James Mease and Mrs. Dorsey Mease, and every person who has ever partaken of the hospitality of these good women know what an elegant dinner was set before us.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Switzer and family of Indiana motored here and spent the week end at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Philips.

The funeral was held from her late home on Monday afternoon, interment of her body being made in the Bloomington cemetery. Thus another home has been made desolate with grief.

More Back Of Mystery Attack On DuBoisite Is Belief Of Police

There were no developments yesterday in the mysterious shooting of John Williams of West DuBois avenue, details of which were given in the Courier. The story of the shooting is substantially the same as that published. The police are working on the theory that there is something more back of it than the idea of robbery. The fact that the intruder, when he first called Mr. Williams to the door, stood on the porch with his pistol in his hand, but handing down does not fit in with the theory that the man was intent upon robbery. If the man was after money it is believed that he would have had his gun up ready for action the second that Mrs. Williams opened the door. As stated Mr. Williams stood squarely in the doorway, looking out as it was rather dark until he snapped on the light.

It is believed possible that the shooting was done by some person who was demented and possibly was working on a crack-brained theory. The police continued their investigation yesterday, but no promising clues of the identity of the assailant were uncovered. (Courier)

SYMPATHY OF WORLD GOES TO JAPAN

AMERICAN RED CROSS WILL CONTRIBUTE FUND OF FIVE MILLION DOLLARS

Ambassador Woods And All Attaches Of U. S. Embassy Are Safe

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 4.—The American Red Cross will seek to obtain a subscription of $5,000,000 for relief work in the stricken districts of Japan.

This plan, approved by President Coolidge at a conference with Red Cross officials, and Herbert Hoover, an expert on relief work, is to be put into effect by registering the country in cities and states as was done in war times. A detailed announcement will be issued later today.

Meanwhile telegrams have gone to all Red Cross chapters, preparing them to organize for relief fund campaigns.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 4.—Cyrus E. Woods, United States Ambassador to Japan, Mrs. Woods and the whole personnel of the Embassy in Tokio, are saved, Woods notified the State Department today.

Wood's message said the Embassy was totally destroyed by the earthquake. It was very brief and did not disclose whether any of the other Americans in Tokio and Yokohama were victims of the disaster.

Today's message from Woods was the first received from an American representative in Japan. Following is the message from Woods, sent from the Radio Station at Iwaki and undated: "All Embassy buildings totally destroyed. No one in Embassy injured. Food situation very critical. Small rations at once from Philippines."

Tokio, Yokohama and neighboring cities in the Japanese Empire today lay a burning waste; their streets littered with uncounted thousands of dead; their buildings wrecked and torn; and the tombs of those who worked and lived in them as a result of a great earthquake which rocked the country and of which meagre mention was made in the Progress last Saturday, the day of the catastrophe.

Earthquakes are frequent in that country and when the news of Saturday carried the news of "another earthquake in Japan," no more than passing attention was given to it. Sunday night the absence of news from that quarter, and the globe gave rise to a fear that a terrible catastrophe had engulfed Japan. Piling together the meagre news gathered from adjacent cities it was soon all too evident that what was probably the greatest earthquake in history had taken place. The quake came on Saturday and was followed by a giant tidal wave.

Today's latest dispatches indicate that the earthquake covered an area at least fifty miles about Tokio in each direction and that Tokio, Yokohama and all neighboring cities and villages, of which there are hundreds, are in abject ruins as a result of the crashing in of buildings, explosions and flood and fire.

The number of dead will run into six figures, the most conservative being given at One Hundred Thousand, as much as the entire population of Clearfield County, with other estimates running as high as a million.

All modern lines of communication are of course broken and little has been learned as to the identity of those lost or the extent of the disaster. Eye-witness descriptions of the disaster, for the first time in a generation, are still lacking today, the press associations being unable to get into communication with their representatives.

The sympathy of the civilized world goes out to Japan in her terrible loss and the United States government is taking measures to render every aid within her power.

Oshaka, Sept. 4.—The foreign settlement at Yokohama was completely destroyed by the earthquake tragedy. Fire broke out afresh at Tokio. The American consulate collapsed and the consul and his wife died in the ruins. The British consul also was killed.

Struck by quake and fire, the flood in Tokio was even more appalling than first official reports announced.

LOCAL WOMAN IN JAPAN

Dr. Rachel Reed, of Clearfield, a sister of Mrs. Morris Owens and Arthur H. and Samuel C. Reed, is said to have been a resident of Tokio, for the past twenty-five years. Her folks are very anxious to get news of her whereabouts. Mrs. Owens says that Dr. Reed, who has become quite wealthy while in Japan, maintains a summer home in the mountains one hundred miles from the coast and she is hopeful her sister was at this summer home when the earthquake devastated Tokio.

Washington, Sept. 4.—While no official dispatches from the stricken cities of Japan have been received, the State Department has received word that the American consul at Yokohama and his wife have been killed in the collapse of the consulate there. Official apprehension was increased.

No business man, or any other man for that matter, who is interested in the future of Clearfield, should fail to attend the public meeting of the Clearfield Commercial Club this evening in the interest of the "Fifth Great Trunk Line" proposal by the New York Central.

The meeting will be called at eight o'clock sharp. Be there.

PINCHOT HAS SAID LAST WORD SO FAR AS TERMS CONCERN

Conference Will Make or Break on the Four Points He Enumerated During Initial Meeting.

TO BE 'SHOWDOWN'

Harrisburg, Pa., Sept. 4.—The conference with anthracite operators and mine leaders, which resumes here tomorrow must stand or fall on the proposals as originally submitted last Wednesday by Governor Pinchot. It was learned authoritatively today.

Any compromise that can be reached in negotiations here, it was indicated, must be based upon the four points suggested by the Governor: covering the 10 per cent wage increase, the checkoff, the eight hour day and the right of collective bargaining.

The Governor is prepared for a "show-down" on his proposal tomorrow. Whatever the outcome, it is learned, Pinchot is going to stand pat, satisfied he has offered the best possible solution to the problem.

Wilkes Barre, Pa., Sept. 4.—The striking anthracite miners are pressing strongly upon their leaders for complete acceptance of a 10 per cent wage increase without the checkoff. The mine leaders went to Philadelphia today to bring this sentiment of the men to John L. Lewis chief at the Pinchot parley, which will re-open in Harrisburg tomorrow and the strikers are confident that a favorable conclusion may be reached so that the walk-out may be brought to an end before another week.

TEACHER'S INSTITUTE IN FULL SWING

Teachers from all parts of the county began pouring into town Monday on the morning train and a steady stream continued to come through the entire day, by train and automobile. The fine weather made auto travel a real pleasure, quite unlike the usual weather that teachers were accustomed to brave when in attendance here just before Christmas. The number enrolled and the interest shown, notwithstanding the holiday, speaks well for the morale of the teaching force of Clearfield county and with such teachers parents can feel safe to entrust their children. At the opening session more than 500 teachers were present.

At 1:30 Superintendent Trostle called the institute to order and the devotional exercises were conducted by Rev. Wm. Armstrong, of the West Side M. E. church. After which Superintendent Trostle addressed the teachers, as follows:

"Fellow teachers, Ladies and Gentlemen: It is truly a pleasure to greet you in this, the sixtieth annual session of the Clearfield County Teachers' Institute. We are living in a transitional period. One in which great strides are being taken in almost every line of endeavor and it behooves each one of us to keep himself familiar with those epochal movements, especially those which are taking place in the particular field in which we are working.

Dr. Strayer said: "One of the most significant phenomena in the development of our American democracy during the past thirty years has been the ever enlarging scope of our system of education." There has been a conscious attempt on the part of our people to realize the democratic ideal of equality of opportunity. The proverbial "Three R's," important as they are, have been weighed in the balance and found wanting for the needs of a citizen of a great century such as the one in which we are now living. Our boys and girls of today, the men and women of a Great Tomorrow, must have a broader outlook on life than could possibly be afforded by the schools which our grandfathers attended.

There is one educational principle that is peculiarly American. It is that every man, because he is a man and an American citizen, should be liberally educated so far as circumstance will permit. A man, according to our Magna Charta, is entitled to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. And the first business of the schools is to make life worth living, liberty a thing worth striving for, and the pursuit of happiness something for which no man need be ashamed. Our schools are and rightly should be great engineering establishments from which man-power is produced. Our product should be not only good men and women, but men and women who are good for something. And you and I as teachers fail ignobly, if we do not give every boy and girl that comes under our tutelage a clear idea of the fact that every one has a work to do in the world and then prepare him in some measure for that work.

Our public schools at this time are the targets of much adverse criticism some of which is rightly placed, but much that is otherwise. We always welcome constructive criticism, but the person who tells you that the schools and teachers of fifty years ago were better in curriculum and methods of teaching than ours today, simply doesn't know what is being done in the schools of today. The curriculum of our modern schools are much richer and broader and the methods employed are far superior to those in the schools which our fathers and grandfathers attended. The difference can be stated thus: Today we are teaching children a guiding and promoting child development; then, they were teaching simply books. Yet in our educational system there are some false conceptions one or two of which I would disabuse your minds this afternoon.

The age old fallacy that education is the gaining of knowledge and that knowledge is power, as Bacon said, still prevails in many minds, even in those of teachers. While the truth is that knowledge is not power but only the key to power. It simply puts into the individual's hand the possibility of being a power in the world, in the second place education is not merely the gaining of knowledge. For the person who has simply acquired a stock of knowledge cannot be said to be truly educated. He must be educated for something. Education is right nourishment plus right use. There must be a harmonious development of the head, the heart and the hand. And that education is deficient which does not make provision for this all round development of the individual.

Then in our haste we have apparently forgotten that there are four kinds of power, viz: intellectual power, heart power, physical power and volitional power. In our educational system we have been trying to develop the head or intellect and in fast in many instances we have not been doing this in a scientific way. Every one knows that there are three distinct acts of the intellect, viz. Reasoning, imagination and imagination, and very much of our teaching is emphasizing and developing only one of these and that the one which is the least important. Remembering I would urge upon you that you strive for an all-round development of our boys and girls.

These defects in our school system are not alone peculiarly applicable to the schools of Clearfield County, for I know that our schools and teachers are on an equal with those of any of our sister counties. Yet there are many conditions in the schools of our county which you and I should strive to better.

In urging you to do better than you have done I am reminded of the story of Munkacsy, the man who painted the famous picture, "Christ Before Pilate" which occurred while he was visiting John Wanamaker, who had purchased the masterpiece. One day Mr. Wanamaker found him pacing up and down before the great canvases, repeating to himself, "I have done my best; I cannot surpass that." The great merchant prince calmly replied, "Tomorrow, I can do better than I did today."

Few of us are renowned artists with an almost superhuman production to our credit, but many of us are possessed of the same human frailty, that of thinking we have done our best, that we have reached our limit. Yet there is always a tomorrow in which we may have strength and opportunity to go ahead of the record which we have already made. New ideas come with each new morning to quicken us, fresh

H. C. Wisner, well known citizen of the Fourth Ward, was instantly killed while on his way to work in the New York Central yards Saturday evening last.

Mr. Wisner had left his home on Eighth street shortly before 7 o'clock to go to his work. He went down the railroad siding leading off Bigler avenue to the yards. While going thru the yard to his place of employment he was struck by the evening passenger train and thrown against a switch stand and instantly killed. The train was running fifteen minutes late and it is believed Mr. Wisner thought it had gone by before he reached the yards and stepping on the track was struck and hurled to his death without even knowing what hit him.

His body was thrown clear of the track and the wheels of the train did not touch him.

H. C. Wisner was 42 years of age and had lived in Clearfield for many years, and where he enjoyed the respect and esteem of a wide circle of friends.

He is survived by his widow, two sons, Lloyd and Leonard of Clearfield; James of Swissvale; Charles of Steel dock and three daughters, Mrs. Henry Heasley and Mrs. Walter Elmer of Corapolis, and Miss Agnes Wisner, of Buffalo, N. Y.

The funeral occurred from his late home this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Interment in Hillcrest cemetery.

hopes fan our smoldering spirits into flames and the deeds of tomorrow should take precedence over those of our yesterdays.

In the hope that from this institute you will go forth with greater enthusiasm and a larger vision of the great calling to which you belong and that the coming school term will be the most successful in the history of our schools; I bid you one and all welcome.

The music is in charge of Prof. J. W. Yoder, who needs no introduction to a Clearfield County Institute and with Mrs. Alice Smith Bay at the piano we have a combination that insures the success of the music. The teachers sang as if they had been training for days before.

Dr. Francis Green of the Boys' School at Farmington, N. J., occupied the first period of instruction on "The Biggest Business in the World." He showed conclusively that the teacher has the biggest business in the world and advised the teachers to do three things:

1. Know your children.
2. Love your children.
3. Help your children.

Dr. Ballentine, formerly of Clarion Normal, presented in a very forceful way the claims of the Near East and urged the teachers to do all they could to help these worthy sufferers.

The last period was occupied by Dr. L. E. Beeler of Chicago, on "The Forces That Make Men." His fundamental thesis, "That what you have, what you are and what you do," some vital factors in the making of a man are: 1. Religious spirit; 2. Instinctive life; 3. Capacity; 4. Physical constitution. He made the appalling statement that out of 153,000 murders in the United States during the last ten years, less than 2 per cent paid the extreme penalty for their crime, while in England and Wales, during the same time, out of 44,000 murders, 98 per cent paid the extreme penalty. He also expressed absolute faith in our form of government and the ability of our public school to remedy this alarming condition of lawlessness.

Terrible Scenes.

Osaka, Sept. 4.—Terrible scenes are reported from Yokohama. The main part of the city is completely destroyed with the city hall, Grand hotel and the specie bank in ruins. The harbor is cluttered with wreckage, many ships having collided. The breakwater was destroyed. Many ships, loaded to the danger point with refugees, have put to sea. Hagone, is believed to have been completely destroyed. Many Japanese notables and foreign residents who were staying at mountain hotels, probably escaped. Itami was heavily damaged.

Smoke Deters Airplanes.

There were monster tidal waves at Kamakura and other noted sea resorts. The exact extent of the damage is unknown. For ten hours attempts were made at airplane observations and attempts to communicate by airplane with the stricken cities, but these attempts were unavailing owing to the density of the smoke. This lack of authentic information causes many unfounded rumors.

Yamamoto Rules.

The new Premier Yamamoto was falsely reported to have been assassinated by a Korean. Yamamoto's cabinet, which he organized while the city was burning, has received royal sanction. It held its first meeting and made provisions for immediate relief work, requisitioned supplies and took other steps. All available war ships have been ordered to participate in giving relief. They must bear the brunt of transportation as the railways are disorganized.

Miss Elizabeth Merry and little niece, Wilda Merry will return home this evening after visiting relatives at Pottersdale over the week end. Walter France, of Altoona and Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Kinch, of Tyrone are in attendance at the funeral of the late H. G. Wisner today.

A new army rifle, the Gerand, is a sort of a one-man portable machine gun. It can pump sixty shots a minute, as against the 25 a minute of the Springfield, and has nearly 25 per cent less recoil than the older type of rifle. It weighs a trifle over a pound more than the old gun and is about four inches longer.

Dr. F. C. Banting, discoverer of the insulin treatment for diabetes, who has been insured for $5,000,000, becomes the world's heaviest insured man.

Available statistics from life insurance companies show that Rodman Wanamaker, New York, had topped the list with $4,500,000. His father, the late John Wanamaker, was insured for $3,000,000.

Other highly insured men are: Pierre du Pont, financier, $4,000,000; Adolph Zukor, moving picture producer, $3,715,000; Josiah Cosen of Baltimore, $2,840,000; Clarence H. Mackay, president of the Postal Telegraph-Commercial Cable Company, $2,000,000; and Julius Rosenwald, president of the Sears-Roebuck & Co., Chicago, $2,000,000.

The annual issue of the "Political Calendar," prepared by George D. Thorn, superintendent of elections, of the state department of state and finance, summarizes ten new and important election laws, including the absentee voters' act, which provides that voters who are absent on the day of the primaries or the general election, may vote on an official absentee voter's ballot, provided by the county.

The new laws make the following changes in the election code:

A candidate nominated at a primary may withdraw his name by filing a written request with the secretary of state, at least 25 days before the municipal election and 50 days prior to a general election.

The act of 1921 exempting women from arrest and imprisonment for the non-payment of taxes, was repealed. Justices of the peace will be paid at the rate of $3 per year for keeping ballot boxes, with $1 per year for each additional box after the first.

The September primary has been changed in the presidential year from the third Tuesday in May to the fourth Tuesday in April.

When any of the members of the board of election returns are candidates for office and not qualified to act, the remaining officer or officers who are not candidates shall perform the duties of the board.

When the county commissioners, the judges or judge, or prothonotary are disqualified to compute the votes for candidates at the primaries by reason of their being candidates, the sheriff shall act as the return board.

The wife or husband of a person in the employ of the state or federal government, is included in the privilege of registering by petition instead of appearing personally before the registrars.

The home of a married woman, for the purpose of voting or holding office, shall be determined for all purposes as if she were unmarried.

Only five political parties must nominate their candidates at the primary election. They are Republican, Democratic, Socialist, Prohibition and Progressive.

This year the primary will fall on Tuesday, September 18, and the general election Tuesday, November 6. On both days the polls will be open from 7 a. m. to 7 p. m.

The last days to be assessed in boroughs and townships for the November election are Tuesday and Wednesday, September 4 and 5. The last day to pay tax to qualify for the November election is Saturday, October 6.

The election expert emphasized the fact that all previous registration have expired.

Torch of One's Own.

As Plutarch tells us, "It is well to go for a light to another man's fire but not to carry it by it, instead of lighting a torch of one's own." A torch of one's own! That is a possession worth having whether it be a flaming beacon on the hilltop or a tiny taper in the window. We cannot tell how far a little candle it owes its beams; nor who is laying his course by its flickering light. The most that we can do—and it is also the least that we should do—is to tend the flame carefully and to keep it steady.—Plutarch.

Greatest Masonry

The famous Washington monument has been called the best piece of masonry in the world. Its interior is 25 feet square, while the exterior is 55 feet square. This shows the tremendous thickness of the walls. The foundation of the shaft is 60 feet square and is set in solid rock eight feet below the surface of the earth. Many nations, as well as cities, states and individuals contributed stones to its construction. Its walls therefore contain the intermingled stones from all parts of the world.

Seemed to deserve Recognition. In 1626 the Duke of Norfolk, as Earl Marshal, received a petition from Thomas Gresham, asking that, "in consideration of his petitioner being the seventh son and thirty ninth child of one father and mother, your grace would be pleased to signalize it by some portion of honors or argumentation to his excellency, to transmit to posterity as an honor to a thing."

Good evening, glad to be with you again.

Did you enjoy Labor Day, or did it leave a bad taste?

The Japanese disaster was bad enough but not much worse than American recklessness. We kill just about as many but take longer to do the job.

Wonder how many of us have forgotten that Japan sent $100,000 to San Francisco when that city was laid low by an earthquake? The money came through the Japanese Red Cross.

America will do well if she sends that money back four fold. Much has been said and written during the past decade about the designs of Japan on this hemisphere. A distracted nation is a disarmed nation. American generosity to Japan in this time of her great need will be worth a dozen peace conferences.

We like the way the teachers' institute came to Clearfield. It looked like business. Nearly six hundred young men and young women came to Clearfield quietly, will pursue their studies quietly and leave without creating a ripple. In spite of this lack of noise and hubbub there is a force in that institute that cannot be measured by any unit at present known to man. That force will be exerted on the rising generations and what Clearfield County is twenty-five years from today is very largely dependent on what those six hundred young men and young women are doing this year.

It is illuminating as well as amusing, to people residing in the bituminous region, and who are daily using soft coal for all their domestic needs, to hear the wail coming from people who use hard coal exclusively.

A man from Pamyra, N. J., writing to the public, says, "I cannot help but take issue with the statement that bituminous coal is fit for the average householder to burn in the equipment that represents the majority of apparatus as now installed in dwellings throughout this district. Last year we almost begged to be served with bituminous coal, and found, after getting a 6000 pound ton for $14.25, that the grates in my heater would not permit the raking of the fire and still retain any of the fire heat. It was hard to keep fire overnight. It was possible to keep attention to maintain a hot fire, but it was vitally necessary to keep strict watch that the fire box was not burned out. The worst feature of all was the accumulation of soot through the horse, hangings were ruined, and in the Spring it was necessary to have two rooms re-papered. It would be a big help to the bituminous operators to have everyone that formerly used anthracite, to substitute their product, but from my former experience, I do not care to go to the expense of remodeling my heating apparatus for the purpose, when I cannot see the right of justice of the present situation."

Now the difference. Just about twelve or fifteen miles from where this man lives, another resident of New Jersey had been used to burning hard coal in his furnace. It cost him $15.00 a ton delivered, but there was so large a percentage of rock and slate, he could not keep a fire. He ordered a car of bituminous, it stood him about $8.50 on the freight siding. He was so pleased with the use of this coal in his furnace that he is now ordered another car.

It is true that a rule, stove or furnace grates fixed for the use of hard coal, are not suitable for bituminous. But they can be used to advantage in an emergency, by a little care and intelligent fire-tending, but the economic conditions will not be helped by a protest, or an appeal to the public prejudice.—COURIER.

GREATER RESPECT FOR LAW

Legion Probation Plan Saves Many Detroit Ex-Servicemen From Stigma of Prison Terms.

Judge Thomas M. Cotter of the Recorder's court of Detroit, Mich., acting on suggestion of the American Legion, has successfully put into operation a probation plan, which has resulted in the minds of many former ex-servicemen a high regard for the authority of the law.

The system was suggested in 1919, following discharge from military service of many thousands of men, of whom some were forced to appear in police court on minor charges of misdemeanors. Under the plan inaugurated many of these men were spared the stigma of a prison sentence, due to a far-sighted policy instigated by Judge Cotter.

Only the word of the man himself, with a promise to be a better citizen, and the word from some American Legion official is necessary to save the man from sentence. The plan works remarkably well, according to the reports of the court. Out of 847 former service men who appeared before Judge Cotter, only six or seven reappeared in his court to answer charges for violation of the statutes.

The plan has been adopted in every police court in the city of Detroit. At the time of the instigation of the probation system Detroit was filled with bolshevik propaganda, and the success of the Legion system indicates the turning point of many former soldiers from disregard of law and order to a high respect for the law's authority.

FROM CONVICT TO COLONELCY

American Legion Acts to Obtain Pardon for Man Who Made Record in British Army.

Kenneth F. Thomas had been convicted and was serving a term in a Virginia penitentiary on a charge of brawling at the time of the outbreak of the World war. While employed in one of the prison farm projects he escaped, made his way up to Canada, where he enlisted and was soon in active service.

He established a splendid war record, reaching a colonelcy before discharge. During this time he kept the Virginia authorities informed of his movements, and promised that he would return and serve out his term as soon as the war was over.

Recently the man returned to Richmond and declared that he was ready to complete his prison term, admitting his identity, and acknowledging his sin. Delay in return, it is said, was due to the fact that for two years he has been in a hospital recovering from the effects of wounds.

His splendid record for bravery and attention to duty won high esteem of the British army officials. The American Legion has taken up the fight to obtain pardon for the man, and the case has been presented to the governor of Virginia by interested Legionnaires.

Roy M. Hancock Among Missing.

Diligent search is being made for Roy M. Hancock, formerly a private in the Motor Transport Corps of the army, a World war veteran. Mrs. Hattie Hancock of Chattanooga, Tenn., waited in vain for word from her son following the war. Government officials had him classified as a deserter. Early in April Mrs. Hancock received word from the state hospital for the insane at Fort Sam Houston, Texas, that her son was a patient in that institution. On the heels of this information came word that he had escaped and no trace has been found of him since that time. Hancock is twenty-eight, five feet nine inches in height, dark hair, and has a horseshoe tattooed on his right arm below the elbow. In the emblem are the words "Good Luck." Following the government's discovery that the man was a mental patient and not a deserter, he was given an honorable discharge.

Donation of Memorial.

Officials of the Illinois department of the American Legion, state officials and prominent Chicagoans gathered recently at Cicero, a suburb of Chicago, for the unveiling of a monument to the soldier dead of the city. The monument was given by a Cicero real estate dealer and bears the names on bronze plates of those Cicero men who made the supreme sacrifice. Dedication exercises were under the direction of the Legion.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Gehrt of Brookville, Pa., spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. George Hartmann at their residence on Locust street.

INVENTION BY BLOOM RETURNS BIG PROFIT

Michigan Bureau Official Shows How to Sell Rhubarb.

Two years ago Frank A. Bloom, manager of the Michigan Farm Bureau Produce exchange, noticed that rhubarb was sold on the Detroit market in bunches tied together with a string and the string bruised the stalks. The bunches were of varying weight. Mr. Bloom thought there could be an improvement. He evolved a cardboard box which would hold just five pounds of rhubarb. Then a carton was made that would hold just ten of these five-pound boxes. The plan worked. The growers found they could get more money for their rhubarb. In boxes it shipped better, there was less discount for spoilage or freezing. But Mr. Bloom was not content with just improving the package. Three grades, choice, fancy and extra fancy, were adopted. Strict grading methods were adhered to. A brand label was adopted for the extra fancy grade and there has been a greater demand for this grade than could be supplied.

Did it pay? A comparison of results under the standard bunch method and 50-pound carton method is shown in the following table:

The Old Way
47 1/2 lb bunches @ 50c	$23.50
17 1/2 lb bunches @ 25c	4.25
Total	$27.75
Cost of 50 lb boxes	1.50
Net return to grower	$26.25
The New Method
10 5 lb boxes @ 50c	$5.00
10 5 lb boxes @ 25c	2.50
Total	$7.50
Cost of 50 lb boxes	1.00
Net return to grower	$6.50

Mr. Bloom says little about the accomplishment. "Just another demonstration," he says, "that it pays to co-operate, standardize, advertise and be honest."

These are the principles on which the Michigan Farm Bureau Produce exchange is founded. The exchange does a monthly business around $60,000 in fruit, vegetables, poultry, eggs, dressed veal and pork.

Appointed on Loan Board.

E. E. Jones of Hartford, Pa., treasurer of the Federal Land bank at Baltimore, has been appointed to fill the position on the federal farm loan board formerly held by Capt. W. S. A. Smith. Mr. Jones is a trustee of the Pennsylvania Agricultural college and was formerly a member of the house and senate of Pennsylvania.

All Kinds of Whiskers.

Whiskers are a variable size issue. The closely trimmed whisker, descending to the lobe of the ear on an otherwise clean-shaven face, was long a favorite among sporting men. Worn lower down the jaw the whisker changes character and develops into "mutton chops" or "blossom" of the Lord Dunsinane kind. This last and the mutton chop are worn with a mustache, while John Bull shaves everything except his hikers.

Indians Liked These.

In dry woods, particularly in the shadow of the hemlock, grow the rattlesnake plantains, the tufts of their gray-green leaves delicately marked with netted veins. Says Nature Magazine of Washington, "The resemblance to the markings on a snake is really responsible for its name, but the Indians once supposed it to have curative power for the bite of a rattlesnake. The two species, common in the eastern states are the lesser rattlesnake plantain and the downy rattlesnake plantain."

Real Meaning of Cheer.

According to one authority, when we shout "hip, hip, hurrah!" we really say "Hicosisma est perditia (twice), Hoannah!" This was the triumphant cry when Jerusalem fell, the initials of the words becoming "hey!" and then hip; Hoannah became hurrah and then hurrah! It sounds so genious—but far fetched.

Progress Editorial For Women

THEY'RE NOT GOOD SPORTS

By FLORENCE DAVIES

That mothers won't let their daughters grow up is the indictment brought by a writer in a current magazine. "They want to keep them always little girls," she says; "Sweet, clinging and helpless, instead of educating them to be wives and mothers."

She says: "It ought to be just as embarrassing for a girl to be a mother's baby as it is for a boy. If a girl can't make a success of her marriage she runs home to mother. What else is there for her to do? Her mother for years has arranged for just that. If there is any one situation in life where good sporting blood is needed, it is in marriage. Matrimony was never intended for a playground for mothers babies."

In other words, this writer would have mothers teach their daughters to be good sports—to play the game to a finish. Well, if that be so, then, there's a wide field for the exercise of the new gospel. If all women were good sports, the divorce courts would go out of business; that is, almost out of business. For, of course, there are men, too, who aren't good sports. But men do habitually lay to women the charge that they are not good sports; they do not pay the game according to the rules and marriage therefore becomes a one-sided game all to the advantage of the so-called weaker sex. No game that has all the advantages on one side can be a good game; if it isn't good for both it can't be a pleasure to either and happiness cannot be found in it. The divorce court is the umpire they call, the game on account of an old excuse that will pass muster under the law.

On the other hand, what arises as to the validity of the charge that mothers won't let their daughters grow up. From all accounts, the present generation of daughters didn't wait on mother's bringing up; they walked away with diplomas self signed and self-sealed. They're out of school as they are out of hand. What they have learned in their truancy is still to be determined, but of all the things that the modern mother may justly be accused, so far as their daughters are concerned, surely it's hardly fair to say that they won't let their daughters grow up.

BANK PROMOTERS BOUND OVER TO COURT UNDER BAIL OF $3,000.00 EACH

Rural Valley, Sept. 4.—At a hearing Friday afternoon before Justice of the Peace O. S. Marshall, this place, Dr. Theodore Kharas and A. E. Ezzi, who have been active recently in this neighborhood in the organization of a proposed banking institution to be known as the "Valley Trust Company" were each bound over to September court on charges of soliciting stock in such an enterprise without being registered at Harrisburg, as is required by a recent Act of Assembly, says Simpson's Daily Leader.

Bail in the sum of $3,000 was given for their appearance in court.

No witnesses were called at the hearing on the part of the defendants. The Commonwealth's witnesses testified that both Dr. Kharas and Mr. Ezzi had solicited sales of stock in the proposed bank; that neither of them had registered at Harrisburg; that no such institution as the "Valley Trust Company" was in existence or had an application been filed for a charter for such a concern. Two of the witnesses for the prosecution testified they had given their checks to the defendants in part payment for stock in the enterprise. One man said he had paid $75 and the other $62.50.

Frank Bedford, deputy secretary of banking, who is the prosecutor in the cases, was present at the hearing.

Immediately after the hearing Dr. Kharas was arrested by the state police and taken to Jefferson county, where a Reynoldsville man has preferred a charge of false pretense against him. It is alleged that the

PENN STATE WILL OPEN 69TH YEAR WEDNESDAY, SEPT. 12; A NEW SCHOOL

State College, Pa., Sept. 4.—Everything is in readiness for the opening of the sixty-ninth year at the Pennsylvania State College, which will take place with the usual general assembly in charge of President John M. Thomas, on Wednesday morning, Sept. 12.

The only new departure at the college this year is the functioning for the first time of the new School of Education which has been formed through the combination of all previously existing educational instruction departments in various other schools of the college. Young men and women are trained in this school for the teaching profession.

The usual capacity enrollment of from 3,000 to 3,500 is expected, with the freshman class numbering about 950, this number being selected from 2,300 applicants. More than 600 seniors were graduated during the past year, but old students returning and many new students coming with advance standing from their colleges, will mean that within a few days after the opening every available room in the main campus will be under the hammer to buy stock in a banking institution Dr. Kharas was promoting in the vicinity of DuBois some time ago and which failed to materialize. The Reynoldsville man is alleged to claim that he has been unable to secure the return of late life bonds and funds which he paid into the enterprise.

YOUNG DOGS KNOW HOW TO PUT ON A SURE-NUT BIG TIME

The Labor Day celebration put on by the Yellow Dogs at Curwensville yesterday was in a fair way to land the biggest crowd in that town the old village had ever seen, when the weather man mean tricked them and sent down enough rain to not only put a damper on the festivities but to head off the late afternoon crowd that was heading that way.

The parade in the morning was merely preliminary to the proceedings and was participated in by about five hundred "yaller dogs," led by the Boys' Marine Band of Curwensville and the Hicksville Band from Altoona.

By the time the parade arrived at the village, it was a jug of rain. The crowd, however, was not deterred and the parade was continued. The crowd was estimated at about 1,000 people.

More than 200 automobiles followed the parade to the Park and Chief of Police Clark and his assistants had a busy hour towing them away safely, all of which was done capably and in a highly satisfactory manner.

The finest dinner in the land was served at the Park by the good women of Curwensville, who certainly shamed the rest of the county. The dinner was served in the park and was a most successful one. The women of Curwensville were praised for the excellence of the dinner served and for the very capable and efficient manner in which it was served.

The afternoon program had just got under way when old Jupiter Pius horned in on the party and messed things up.

However, the celebration was a credit to Curwensville and those in charge have every reason to be proud of the occasion.

All the proceeds are to be devoted to improving Irwin Park and a snug sum will be realized for that purpose.

SACKETT—WALTER

A charming wedding took place on Wednesday forenoon in St. Matthew's Roman Catholic church at Stroudsburg, Pa., after the mass, when Miss Joanna C. Sackett, of Clearfield, Pa., and Ferdinand Walter of East Stroudsburg, took the vows of holy wedlock before the Rev. Father John T. But's, rector of St. Matthew's. The wedding party proceeded to the church from the home of Mrs. Anna Lung, 197 North Courtland street. Mr. and Mrs. William J. Powers were the witnesses.

After the wedding the marriage party proceeded to the Penn-Stroud, where a charming wedding breakfast was served, guests from Philadelphia and Scranton being present.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Fred Sackett, of Locust street and a charming and accomplished young woman, with a host of friends in Clearfield.

New Trunk Line for Pennsylvania

By W. H. LEIGH

DEVELOPMENT interest has been aroused in Pennsylvania by the proposal to establish a new trunk line across the State, thus affording increased facilities for the shipment of manufactured products and at the same time providing a new through line between the seaboard and the Middle West.

This proposal was presented to the Interstate Commerce Commission May 16 in the hearings held upon plans for the consolidation of the railroads of the country into a limited number of systems, as provided by the Transportation Act. It was promptly taken up by the people of Pennsylvania, led by the Williamsport Chamber of Commerce.

The only trunk line now traversing Pennsylvania is the Pennsylvania Railroad, which serves the southern part of the State. The Erie line, into the northwestern corner of the State for a short distance and the Baltimore & Ohio, cuts across the southwestern corner. Owing to Pennsylvania, with its enormous manufacturing and mining interests, needs more transportation.

So far as a continuous line of rails is concerned, the proposed route already exists. But some of the lines are different management, a condition which is not conducive to efficiency. What is needed is a consolidation under the terms of the Transportation Act.

During the year this line was utilized to an extent which showed how useful it might be under a single management.

The proposal includes the acquisition of the Central Railroad of New Jersey by the New York Central and the allotment to the latter of certain small leased lines of the Philadelphia & Reading, together with trackage rights over short stretches of the Pennsylvania and the Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburgh until new tracks can be built by the New York Central.

At Ashtabula, O., the new line would form a junction with the existing main line of the New York Central between New York, Buffalo, Cleveland, Chicago and St. Louis.

The new line would be the second shortest between New York City and Chicago, being only 939 miles long, as compared with the Pennsylvania Railroad's 909 miles. Third would come the New York Central's present route of 979 miles; fourth the Erie with 998 miles, and lastly the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad with 1,014 miles.

The proposed route crosses the summit of the Alleghenies at an elevation of 1,539 feet, as compared with a summit elevation of 996 feet on the present New York Central water-level route, 1,519 feet on the Erie, 2,193 feet on the Pennsylvania main line and 2,270 feet on the Baltimore & Ohio.

The plan for this route as set forth to the Interstate Commerce Commission, provides:

First: A Central Railroad of New Jersey with its leased lines to be added to the New York Central Lines.

Second: Assignment of leased lines of the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad as follows:

(a) The Catawissa Railroad (Newberry Junction to Tamaqua) (Hauka).

(b) The Shamokin, Sunbury and Lewisburg Railroad (West Milton through Sunbury to Shamokin).

(c) The Little Schuylkill Navigation Railroad (Tamaqua to Port Clinton).

(d) The West Mahanoy Railroad (Mahanoy City to East Mahanoy Junction).

Third: The assignment of trackage rights on the following portions of the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad, for the handling of all traffic except local traffic:

(a) Shamokin to Mahanoy City.

(b) Port Clinton through Reading to Philadelphia and Port Richmond, including the use of such portions of the Philadelphia terminals as may be necessary.

In addition the New York Central asks for a continuation of trackage rights over the Pennsylvania Railroad from Rose Siding to Falls Creek, and from the latter point, over the Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburgh Railroad to Clearfield, until owned lines can be constructed.

The program also provides for temporary trackage rights over the Pennsylvania Railroad from Keating to Lock Haven, until an owned line can be constructed. This will provide a low grade line between Clearfield and Lock Haven, to which latter point the New York Central has a low grade line.

The following table gives the mileage involved from Ashtabula, Ohio, to New York:

Railroad Terminal Miles

New York Central, Ashtabula to Rose Siding 129.67

Trackage rights over Pennsylvania R. R. (for which will be substituted owned lines when constructed), Rose Siding to Falls Creek 20.91

Trackage rights over Buffalo, Rochester

& Pittsburgh Ry. (for which will be substituted owned lines when constructed), Falls Creek to Clearfield 30.64

New York Central (low grade line), Clearfield to Keating 52.98

Trackage rights over Pennsylvania Railroad, (for which will be substituted owned lines when constructed), Keating to Lock Haven 44.96

New York Central, Lock Haven to Newberry Junction 18.21

Total existing New York Central operated lines and trackage rights 297.37

Additional lines to be assigned to the New York Central to complete the route

Philadelphia & Reading, Newberry Junction to Tamaqua 95.60

Central Railroad of New Jersey, Tamaqua to Jersey City 135.30

Total mileage, Ashtabula, Ohio, to New York 528.17

As will be seen by the above table, the New York Central ultimately proposes to build 96.51 miles of new road, so as to do away with trackage rights, thereby putting the entire trunk line under one ownership, management and operation.

At present, during the peak of traffic movement, the Newberry Junction Gateway handles 65,000 carloads of freight a month, while the normal average is approximately 45,000 cars a month. If the present rate of tonnage handled at Newberry Junction continues the rest of the year, 8,000,000 tons of freight will have passed over this route during 1923.

Birds of a Feather.
Rev. Mr. Smith, rector of a fashionable London church, was induced to preach at a well-known prison. When in the vestry he said to the prison chaplain: "Now I have come, I don't know what to say to your convicts."

The chaplain replied: "Preach exactly as if to your own congregation—remember, my people have been found out, yours have not."

MESSAGE SENT BY BALLOON

Letters for Legion Posts, by National Commander, Dwyer, Dropped From Big Bags.

Messages from the air were literally showered on posts of the American Legion from National Commander Alvin Dwyer recently when letters were dropped from the basket of one of the balloons in the national elimination balloon race. The messages were received in a number of Eastern states where the balloon passed on its aerial journey over the country.

Participating in the general direction of the balloons would travel from the official headquarters city, a number of personal messages from Commander Dwyer were made ready, and the pilots planned to throw these from the basket, attached to tiny parachutes, as they passed over the towns and cities, later to be delivered to the commander of the Legion post in that locality.

The balloon which carried this message was entered as "The American Legionnaire," and was piloted by Capt. C. E. McCullough, vice chairman of the Legion's national committee on aeronautics. Captain McCullough was attached to various balloon schools during the war and made many flights. He is now division commander for the Pennsylvania division, and in this capacity handled transportation arrangements on the occasion of the visit of the king and queen of Belgium, Marjorie Fock, the prince of Wales and other European nobles.

Assistant Captain McCullough was Lt. Col. F. Bond of the army, who served in the war, and was stationed at Aberdeen proving ground, Maryland, as a Legionnaire. Lieutenant Bond has participated in a number of balloon races, being in the basket with Major Wimpsett, who won the 1922 elimination race, which started at Milwaukee. On this trip the bag landed in the Province of Quebec, Canada, some miles from its starting place. This victory entitled them to competition in the international race for the Coupe Queen Elizabeth cup, which started from Geneva, Switzerland, but they were forced down shortly after crossing the Alps.

The balloon used by Captain McCullough had Lieutenant Bond, and from the messages from the Legion's headquarters was of 80,000 cubic feet capacity. It was of the army type and had been supplied by the commanding officer of the Three Hundred and Eighty-second airship company, H. Q. reserves, Third corps army area. The balloon, which landed at 11:30 a. m., was a few miles west of Pittsburgh, and after being landed, the pilot was taken to the local hospital where he was treated for a few days.

Curwensville's Own Column

Wilson Maneval departed from his Curwensville home on Monday for an extended trip down in the Jersey Shore country, the land in which he was born and reared. He does not expect to run up against many of his old youth companions nor ancient landmarks, but will take a good and longingly squint at the land of his birth anyway, and perhaps for the last time in his life.

SALEM PICNIC A SUCCESS

The picnic at Salem church in Boggs township yesterday, an annual event among the good people of that section, attracted the usual fine crowd and a most enjoyable time was had by all.

The Bigler band under the leadership of Prof. Ambrose Davis, with Joseph Peters as manager, furnished some very fine music during the day.

After the dinner, and such a dinner as the good wives of that neighborhood have long been famous for, Chairman Willard Cross, of the picnic committee, asked John M. Chase, of Clearfield, a former resident of that section, to preside at the entertainment. Mr. Chase called for music by the band and after a pleasing selection had been rendered, he introduced A. R. Chase, Esq., who delivered a neat little address in which he complimented his "old home folks" on the spirit they show at these annual gatherings at old Salem.

Miss Bell Shimmel gave a pleasing recitation, followed by more music by the band, after which John G. Mains and several others made addresses.

Among the attendants at the picnic were David Woods, aged 93, grandfather of Woods Bros. of Clearfield, and Abram Wisor, aged 88 years, who was born and has lived all his long life within sight of the picnic grounds.

We were lucky enough to get a seat at the table being looked after by Mrs. W. O. Mease, Mrs. James Mease and Mrs. Dorsey Mease, and every person who has ever partaken of the hospitality of these good women know what an elegant dinner was set before us.

A SUCCESSFUL OPENING

The Ell-Jay Stores which have successfully opened one of their chain of stores in the room formerly occupied by O. T. Tobias on Market street, report that their opening was a highly pleasing event from every standpoint.

Clearfield people appreciated their offerings to the extent of keeping the store well thronged all day and partook of the many bargains offered them on opening day.

The management of this chain of stores are to be congratulated on the changes in the appearance they have wrought in the store and the Progress wishes them a successful career in this city.

JOY OF HEALTH WOMAN'S RIGHT

Mrs. Evans Freed from Female Weakness by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Detroit, Michigan.—"I had female weakness with pains in my back, and I could not stand on my feet for any length of time. I was working in a factory but had to quit as I was too much on my feet. A friend recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to me, and I can hardly believe it myself that I am well. Oh, it is a grand thing to have your health! I feel well all the time and can go out like other women and not feel that awful torture. When I took your medicine first I thought it should cure after the first bottle, but I am glad my husband kept me at it. I have had nine bottles and now I am well."—Mrs. JENNY EVANS, 1604 Lafayette Blvd., Detroit, Michigan.

If you are suffering from displacements, irregularities, backache, nervousness or other forms of female weakness, you should take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. The reason is given in letters like these, and we have published thousands of them. You may expect that a medicine that has helped other women will help you. Try it.

OLD DOC STORK KEEPS HIS DATE

Dr. C. E. Chase, the dentist, was one of the many Clearfielders who took in the automobile races over at Tipton Monday. The genial dentist, as is the case with all members of the tooth carpentering profession, keeps a call record in his office, but he overlooked a very important date he had therein when he had closed up shop and headed for Altoona. This "date" happened to be with Old Doc Stork and of course when old Doc makes a date that date is kept, at least so far as the Stork family is concerned and not even a dentist can head him off. The result was Old Doc and his basket arrived at the Chase home on Turnpike avenue at 7 o'clock last evening according to previous arrangements. When Old Doc found young Doc was not at home he ruffled up his feathers and stamped back and forth across the porch in high dudgeon for awhile. Dr. Chase happened along about this time and he interceded for the absent dentist and Old Doc finally decided to leave his package. The package contained the cutest little girl baby imaginable and "Doc" has been putting in all his time since arriving home in evening attempting to apologize to the newcomer for not being there when she arrived. Mother and babe are doing fine and Doc is going to be alright again in a day or two.

More Back Of Mystery
Attack On DuBoisite
Is Belief Of Police

There were no developments yesterday in the mysterious shooting of John Williams of West DuBois avenue, details of which were given in the Courier. The story of the shooting is substantially the same as that published. The police are working on the theory that there is something more back of it than the idea of robbery. The fact that the intruder, when he first called Mr. Williams to the door, stood on the porch with his pistol in his hand, but hanging down does not fit in with the theory that the man was intent upon robbery. If the man was after money it is believed that he would have had his gun up ready for action the second that Mrs. Williams opened the door. As stated Mr. Williams stood squarely in the doorway, looking out as it was rather dark until he snapped on the light.

It is believed possible that the shooting was done by some person who was demented and possibly was working on a crack-brained theory. The police continued their investigation yesterday, but no promising clues of the identity of the assailant were uncovered. (Courier)

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Rowles and Mr. and Mrs. Emory Hummel attended the Rowles Reunion at Olanta on Saturday.
